Year 6 SATs and mock SATs weeks

Dear Parents/Carers,

I would like to thank you all for your help with ensuring your child has had a positive start to their time in Year Six. The children have settled into their new classes and are looking forward to working hard during their final year at our school.

To prepare our children for their SATs tests later in the year, we are running our first Mock SATs week on the week beginning the 7th of September 2026. This is an assessment for teachers to gain a broader understanding of what the children are confident with and in which topics they will require further support with throughout the year. We will complete other mock SATs weeks throughout the year to support our assessment of the children.

Please find the dates of the official SATs tests below, which will take place from Monday 10th May – Thursday 13th May 2027.

Dates of the official SATs tests:

Date	Paper
Monday 10th May	English Grammar and Punctuation Spelling Paper
Tuesday 11th May	English Reading Paper
Wednesday 12th May	Mathematics (Arithmetic Paper) Mathematics Paper (Problem Solving Paper 1)
Thursday 13th May	Mathematics Paper (Problem Solving Paper 2)

Whilst excellent attendance and punctuality are expected throughout the school year, they are particularly important this week. Thank you for your support in ensuring that pupils attend every day and arrive on time.

The mock SATs week is intended to help the children become accustomed to the SATs process, but the primary purpose is to inform our teaching for the Autumn Term so that we can support the children in making the best progress. Therefore, we do not want the children to feel concerned or worried by the week but instead see it as an opportunity to practise test technique and skills.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to discuss with the teaching team or myself.

Kind regards,

David Hodges

Head of School
